

Minutes of the DRC held on, 08-07-2016

1) The DRC has resolved to observe the following guidelines for admission to the Ph.D. programme

a) DET is purely a qualifying examination and only candidates scoring 50 marks or above in the DET, and those exempted from DET shall be called for DRC interview.

b) The marks scored in the interview alone shall determine the merit list for admission.

c) In order to be considered for admission, a candidate shall have to score a minimum of 40 marks in the interview.

2) Schedule the DC presentations for Tuesday afternoons prior to or following the Faculty Council Meetings. The students are to submit a brief semester-end report to the DC, the details of which may be decided in consultation with the respective research supervisors.

3) The DRC has also resolved to conduct the pending DCs in the months of July itself.

4) In conformity with the UGC PhD Regulations 2016 the total credit of the PhD coursework is reduced from 18 to 12. The coursework would now comprise three courses of 4 credits each. The re-designed curriculum of LCH 7101 - Research Methodology and LCH 7102 - Critical/Cultural/Comparative Theory has been placed before the DRC by Dr Joseph and Dr Prasad respectively, who the DRC has approved of the same. The courses are to be offered from 2016 on, as 4-credit courses in place of the earlier 6-credit courses.

Individual supervising teachers have shared their concern in the DRC over the insistence on the part of the University Administration that they sign ~~on~~ the individual bills of the Contingency bills/vouchers submitted by the research scholars working with them. They will only forward the bills with their signature. As the expenses incurred are committed by the scholars themselves the supervising teachers cannot be made accountable for the expenses. For the last four years the supervising teachers have not been made accountable for the same. Hence the supervising teachers strongly feel that the earlier practice be continued.

LEC 5301 Indian Writing in English

Course Description

The course aims at introducing the students to the significant and burgeoning body of literature produced in English in India and by the diaspora over a century and a half, spanning the latter half of the 19th century to the contemporary times. The focus of the course will be on questions of language, authenticity, readership, gender, caste, class and community identities, nation, secularism, marketing etc., which these writings raise/problematize. The students will be encouraged to perceive the ambivalences, anxieties, tensions and possibilities within a diverse spectrum of literatures and cultures homogenised under the rubric of Indian Writing in English.

The course instructor will select two to four texts from each module for detailed study. The rest of the texts will be marked for recommended reading during that particular semester.
