Abstract

Before globalisation, catastrophic situation has been prevailing in the life of Banjara community people, appalling situation has been apparent in Banjara community inhabitant areas. Bucolic premises of Banjara people were worsening for decades, those areas had paralysed for decades in term of development, there were lot of curbs on tribal policies and all those curbs now emancipated by the globalisation. We can calibrate that, globalisation is the benchmark for the changing lifestyle of Banjara community. Abruptly after globalisation few of changes have had happened in life style of Banjara community in Telangana State, hitherto not that much of changes had happened in lifestyle of Banjara community. Before Globalisation most of the Banjara community people had to absquatulate their lifestyle, after globalisation their traditional professions absconded bid owing to most of them have been gravitating towards agglomerated culture. It is believed to be, if globalisation had been not occurred, the life style of Banjara community people would have been same. Most of the Banjara community people are aloof from the rest of the society, other community people also deprecated Banjara community people with regarding their development, nobody has tried to dulcify them, nobody has tried to pacify them, thus situation of the Banjara community has been deteriorating and customs of that community denigrated, thus the deplorable situation has been prevailing in life Banjara community people.

Introduction

Prior to globalization, preponderance of Banjara families had archaic kind of family structure and colloquial kind of cultural practices, most of them depend on itinerant subsistence, Jhum agriculture, forest dwelling, forest economy, forest habituations, isolation attitude, meekness style of behaviour, and traditional kind of marriage system so on, all those kind of characteristic features of Banjara community has been label them peculiar from the rest of the contemporary society.

Afterwards of globalization Banjara society has started to morphed, rest of society has started to encroach to Banjara culture, and inhabitant areas, and corporate world has embarked to encroach to conceal hamlets of Banjara community in Telangana State. Those areas domination uninterruptedly goes on these days too, due to these reasons, preponderance of Banjara hamlet has become vulnerable, its verily staid issue with regard to Banjara
